

ABOUT US

The CFA Association Russia is a non-profit organization representing the interests of CFA Charterholders and CFA candidates based in Russia and the CIS.

The society was founded in 2004 and is a member society of the CFA Institute. It is committed to leading the development of the investment industry through the promotion of the highest ethical standards and through the provision of education, professional development, advocacy, information and career support on behalf of its members.

Formation and history of CFA Association (Russia)

Meetings of potential members held in November 2002 and March 2003 (in Moscow) indicated substantial support for the formation of a Russia-based local Society of CFA Institute. In the meeting of potential members held in March 2003, an “initiative group” of interested CFA charterholders, CFA Institute members, and candidates was mandated by the attendees to facilitate the fulfilment of formal requirements for the formation of a local Russian Society.

In March 2004, a formal meeting of potential members of Russia-based local Society was held to formally approve the draft Bylaws (including the Mission Statement and Statement of Purpose of the Society, dues, and to elect the members of the Board of Directors). This meeting was attended by 58 people (42 existing and 16 potential members of CFA Institute).

By September 2004, the documentation required to make formal application to CFA Institute for local Society status (including written commitment to join the Society by at least 50 members of CFA Institute, a minimum of 75% of which were CFA charterholders), was obtained. On 22 October 2004, CFA Institute welcomed CFA Association (Russia) as its 130th society.

As of October 2010, the number of active members of CFA Association (Russia) reached 320.
